

Special Issue on Emotion and Socio-Psychological Study

Call for Papers

Emotion is a mental state that arises spontaneously rather than through conscious effort and is often accompanied by physiological changes. Such mental states or the qualities that are associated with them, especially in contrast to reason: a decision based on emotion rather than logic. It's an affective state of consciousness in which joy, sorrow, fear, etc., is experienced, as distinguished from cognitive and volitional states of consciousness.

In this special issue, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original research and review articles on Emotion and Socio-Psychological Study. Potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- Emotional and behavioral disorders
- Emotional processing and perception
- Emotion, cognition and behaviors
- Effects of emotion
- Performance and achievements
- Counselling and interventions
- Satisfaction and positive emotion
- Emotional deficits and psychotherapy
- Emotional awareness and EQ
- Emotional regulation and social skills
- Socioemotional dynamics
- Social and emotional patterns
- Influences of emotion on learning and memory
- Socioemotional development
- Socio-psychological adaptation

Authors should read over the journal's For Authors carefully before submission. Prospective authors should submit an electronic copy of their complete manuscript through the journal's Paper Submission System.

Please kindly notice that the “Special Issue” under your manuscript title is supposed to be specified and the research field “Special Issue – Emotion and Socio-Psychological Study” should be chosen during your submission.
