

Special Issue on Breast Care and Clinical Health

Call for Papers

Breast Care and Clinical Health is an interdisciplinary field focused on the prevention, diagnosis, treatment, and long-term management of breast-related conditions across the lifespan. It integrates clinical medicine, nursing, oncology, radiology, surgery, pathology, and public health to address both benign and malignant breast diseases. The field emphasizes evidence-based screening, early detection, personalized therapeutic strategies, postoperative care, and survivorship, while also considering psychosocial support, patient education, and quality of life. Advances in imaging, biomarkers, minimally invasive interventions, and multidisciplinary care models play a central role in improving clinical outcomes and promoting comprehensive breast health.

In this special issue, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original research and review articles on exploring Breast Care and Clinical Health. Potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- Benign breast disorders management
- Breast cancer screening and prevention
- Breast infection and inflammatory diseases
- Breast nursing and patient-centered care
- Breast pathology and histopathology
- Breast reconstruction and cosmetic outcomes
- Clinical breast imaging and diagnostics
- Genetic counseling and risk assessment
- Hormonal therapy and endocrine management
- Medical oncology for breast diseases
- Precision medicine in breast health
- Psychosocial support and survivorship care
- Public health and breast health promotion
- Radiation therapy in breast care
- Rehabilitation and long-term follow-up care
- Surgical breast oncology

Authors should read over the journal's For Authors carefully before submission. Prospective authors should submit an electronic copy of their complete manuscript through the journal's Paper Submission System.

Please kindly specify the “Special Issue” under your manuscript title. The research field “Special Issue - *Breast Care and Clinical Health” should be selected during your submission.
