

Special Issue on Civil Law

Call for Papers

Civil law is a major branch of the law that originates in continental Europe and adopted in much of the world. It serves as the primary source of law, which is more concerned with cases between individual people where one person commits an offence which is harmful towards another person, their rights or their property, and also settles disputes between individuals and organisations. The goal of this special issue is to provide a platform for scientists and academicians all over the world to promote, share, and discuss various new issues and developments in the area of civil law.

In this special issue, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original research and review articles on exploring Civil Law. Potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- Property law
- Commercial law
- Family law
- Estate law
- Maritime law
- Canon law
- Civil litigation
- Breaches of contract
- Personal injury
- Employment tribunal
- Inquisitorial system
- Feudal and local practices

Authors should read over the journal's For Authors carefully before submission. Prospective authors should submit an electronic copy of their complete manuscript through the journal's Paper Submission System.

Please kindly specify the “Special Issue” under your manuscript title. The research field “Special Issue - Civil Law” should be selected during your submission.
