
Special Issue on Herbal Medicine

Call for Papers

Herbal medicine focuses on the use of plant-based remedies in the treatment and prevention of disease. This field encompasses the study of the active compounds found in medicinal plants, their effects on the body, and their potential clinical applications. Herbal medicine includes the use of herbal supplements, teas, tinctures, and other natural products that are derived from plant sources. Researchers in this field may investigate the biological activity of specific compounds found in medicinal plants, as well as the safety and efficacy of herbal remedies for various health conditions. Some specific topics within herbal medicine research include the effects of herbs on the immune system, the use of herbal remedies for managing chronic pain, and the use of herbs for mental health conditions like anxiety and depression. The goal of herbal medicine research is to develop evidence-based natural therapies that can be used in conjunction with or as alternatives to conventional medicine.

In this special issue, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original research and review articles on Herbal Medicine. Potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- Biological and medicinal chemistry
- Pharmacology
- Herbal toxicity
- Drug safety
- Herbal bioactivation
- Mechanisms of action and efficacy
- Drug metabolism and transport
- Herb-drug interactions
- Side effects
- Extraction and formulation
- Clinical trials and drug development
- Phytotherapy
- Nutritional therapy
- Prevalence and predictors
- Herbal medicine in chronic disease management
- Ethnobotany and traditional medicine

Authors should read over the journal's For Authors carefully before submission. Prospective authors should submit an electronic copy of their complete manuscript through the journal's Paper Submission System.

Please kindly notice that the “Special Issue” under your manuscript title is supposed to be specified and the research field “Special Issue – Herbal Medicine” should be chosen during your submission.

According to the following timetable:

Submission Deadline	September 21st, 2023
Publication Date	November 2023

For publishing inquiries, please feel free to contact the Editorial Assistant at submission.entrance1@scirp.org

CM Editorial Office
cm@scirp.org