

Special Issue on Clinical Nutrition and Dietetics

Call for Papers

Clinical Nutrition and Dietetics is a specialized field within healthcare that examines the role of nutrition in the prevention, management, and treatment of diseases. It involves the assessment of patients' nutritional status and the development of individualized dietary interventions to support medical care across diverse conditions such as metabolic disorders, cardiovascular diseases, and gastrointestinal illnesses. The discipline integrates evidence-based science, clinical practice, and patient education to improve health outcomes, enhance recovery, and maintain optimal nutritional balance in both acute and long-term care settings.

In this special issue, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original research and review articles on exploring Clinical Nutrition and Dietetics. Potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- Medical nutrition therapy
- Therapeutic diet planning
- Clinical nutrition assessment
- Enteral nutrition support
- Parenteral nutrition support
- Pediatric nutrition
- Geriatric nutrition
- Oncology nutrition
- Renal nutrition
- Cardiovascular nutrition
- Gastrointestinal nutrition
