

Special Issue on Mental Health Science

Call for Papers

Mental Health Science studies the biological, psychological, and social factors that influence mental well-being and mental disorders. It integrates research from psychology, psychiatry, neuroscience, and public health to understand the causes, diagnosis, prevention, and treatment of conditions such as depression, anxiety and other psychiatric disorders. The field also focuses on mental health promotion, early intervention, and evidence-based therapies to improve individual and community well-being.

In this special issue, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original research and review articles on Mental Health Science. Potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- Clinical and health psychology
- Mental illness and treatment
- Mental health epidemiology
- Neuropsychology
- Psychopathology
- Behavioral neuroscience
- Cognitive neuroscience of mental health
- Prevention and promotion in mental health
- Mental healthcare and nursing
- Emotion regulation and mental health
- Child and adolescent mental health
- Developmental psychology
- Neurodevelopmental disorders
- Mental health assessment
- Psychotherapy and intervention science
- Cognitive behavioral therapy
- Trauma & stressor-related disorders
- Coping with depression and anxiety
- Positive psychology and well-being
- Global mental health & mental health disparities
- Public mental health and suicide prevention
- Primary care and mental health
- Community mental health
- Mental health policy and services
- Substance use and addiction studies
- Occupational mental health

-
- Digital mental health and telepsychology

Authors should read over the journal's For Authors carefully before submission. Prospective authors should submit an electronic copy of their complete manuscript through the journal's Paper Submission System.

Please kindly notice that the “Special Issue” under your manuscript title is supposed to be specified and the research field “Special Issue – *Mental Health Science” should be chosen during your submission.

According to the following timetable:

Submission Deadline	June 5th, 2026
Publication Date	August 2026

For publishing inquiries, please feel free to contact the Editorial Assistant at submission.entrance1@scirp.org

Health Editorial Office