

Special Issue on Health Policy and Management

Call for Papers

Health Policy and Management studies the design, implementation and evaluation of healthcare systems, policies and organizational practices. It focuses on improving the efficiency, accessibility, quality and equity of health services. The field examines healthcare financing, governance, resource allocation and leadership in health organizations, aiming to develop effective policies and management strategies that enhance population health outcomes and ensure sustainable healthcare delivery.

In this special issue, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original research and review articles on Health Policy and Management. Potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- Health policy analysis and development
- Health systems and performance management
- Health economics and financing
- Healthcare quality improvement and patient safety
- Global health policy and governance
- Healthcare management and leadership
- Public health administration
- Health services research
- Health informatics and digital health management
- Healthcare financing and insurance systems
- Organizational behavior in healthcare
- Hospital and healthcare operations management
- Emergency preparedness and response
- Mental health policy and management
- Health equity and social determinants of health

Authors should read over the journal's For Authors carefully before submission. Prospective authors should submit an electronic copy of their complete manuscript through the journal's Paper Submission System.

Please kindly notice that the “Special Issue” under your manuscript title is supposed to be specified and the research field “Special Issue – Health Policy and Management” should be chosen during your submission.
