

Special Issue on Management Information Systems

Call for Papers

Management Information Systems (MIS) studies the integration of information technology, people and organizational processes to support decision-making and business operations. It focuses on collecting, processing, storing and analyzing data to improve efficiency, coordination and strategic planning within organizations. The field bridges management and information technology, enabling organizations to use data-driven insights and digital systems to enhance performance and competitiveness.

In this special issue, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original research and review articles on Management Information Systems. Potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- Data management and big data systems
- Enterprise systems and resource management
- Digital transformation and IT Innovation
- Database management systems
- Business intelligence
- Business analytics, data science and AI
- Decision support systems
- Human-computer interaction and user experience
- Enterprise resource planning systems
- Customer relationship management
- E-commerce and digital markets
- Supply chain management systems
- Knowledge management system
- Cloud computing and virtualization
- E-Business and digital commerce systems
- Cybersecurity, privacy and risk management
- Information systems strategy and governance
- Social media and digital communication
- Emerging technologies and smart information systems

Authors should read over the journal's For Authors carefully before submission. Prospective authors should submit an electronic copy of their complete manuscript through the journal's Paper Submission System.

Please kindly notice that the “Special Issue” under your manuscript title is supposed to be specified and the research field “Special Issue – Management Information Systems” should be chosen during your submission.

According to the following timetable:

Submission Deadline	August 30th, 2026
Publication Date	October 2026

For publishing inquiries, please feel free to contact the Editorial Assistant at submission.entrance1@scirp.org

JCC Editorial Office