Special Issue on Economic Development

Call for Papers

Economic Development examines the processes and policies that improve economic growth, productivity, living standards and social well-being within countries and regions. It focuses on issues such as poverty reduction, industrialization, employment, income distribution, infrastructure, human capital and sustainable development. The field analyzes how institutions, globalization, technology and public policy influence long-term economic progress and societal transformation.

In this special issue, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original research and review articles on Economic Development. Potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- Development economics
- Growth theories and models
