Special Issue on Infectious Diseases and Health

Call for Papers

Infectious diseases constitute a tenacious and major public-health problem all over the world. Although some, such as smallpox and poliomyelitis, have been eradicated from nature or almost wiped out, many diseases persist with little or no hope of getting them under control. In addition, new infectious diseases are emerging and old ones that were thought to be under control are regaining lost ground. The goal of this special issue is to provide a platform for scientists and academicians all over the world to promote, share, and discuss various new issues and developments in the area of Infectious Diseases and Health.

In this special issue, we invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original research and review articles that explore Infectious Diseases and Health. In this special issue, potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- Hepatitis B, Hepatitis C, HIV/AIDS
- Legionnaires' disease
- Cryptosporidiosis
- Enteroviruses
- Varicella Disease (Chickenpox)
- Prevent Illness After a Disaster
- Medical Management and Patient Advisement After a Disaster
- Hurricane Information for Health Professionals

Authors should read over the journal's For Authors carefully before submission. Prospective authors should submit an electronic copy of their complete manuscript through the journal's Paper Submission System.

Please kindly specify the "Special Issue" under your manuscript title. The research field "Special Issue - *Infectious Diseases and Health" should be selected during your submission.
