
Special Issue on Economics of Social Issues

Call for Papers

Economics of Social Issues applies economic theories and methods to analyze social problems and public concerns. This field examines topics such as poverty, inequality, education, health, crime, labor markets and discrimination, focusing on how individual behavior, incentives and policies shape social outcomes. By using empirical analysis and economic modeling, it evaluates the effectiveness of public policies and interventions, aiming to promote social welfare, equity and efficient resource allocation in addressing complex societal challenges.

In this special issue, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original research and review articles on Economics of Social Issues. Potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- Socio-economic planning and policy
- Behavioral economics and social issues
- Urban and housing economics
- Public economics
- Labor economics and employment issues
- Economics of poverty and inequality
- Happiness and welfare economics
- Economics of well being
- Development economics
- Globalization and economics
- Social policy evaluation
- Political economy
- Cultural economics
- Ethics and economics
- Social and economic values
- Gender and family economics
- Economics of social mobility
- Economics of social capital
- Healthcare economics
- Economics of education
- Environmental and natural resource economics
- Migration economics

Authors should read over the journal's For Authors carefully before submission.

Prospective authors should submit an electronic copy of their complete manuscript through the journal's Paper Submission System.

Please kindly notice that the “Special Issue” under your manuscript title is supposed to be specified and the research field “Special Issue – *Economics of Social Issues” should be chosen during your submission.

According to the following timetable:

Submission Deadline	April 5th, 2026
Publication Date	June 2026

OJBM Editorial Office