

Special Issue on Pediatric Infectious Diseases

Call for Papers

Pediatric infectious diseases is a medical and research field focused on the prevention, diagnosis, treatment, and management of infections in infants, children, and adolescents. It studies viral, bacterial, fungal, and parasitic infections, their epidemiology, pathophysiology, and impact on child health. The field also emphasizes immunization, antimicrobial therapies, outbreak control, and the development of strategies to reduce morbidity and mortality, aiming to improve short- and long-term health outcomes in pediatric populations.

In this special issue, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original research and review articles on Pediatric Infectious Diseases. Potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- Neonatal and perinatal infections
- Viral infections in children
- Bacterial infections and antibiotic resistance
- Fungal and parasitic infections
- Neonatal and congenital infections
- Immunization and vaccine-preventable diseases
- HIV/AIDS and other chronic pediatric infections
- Global and emerging pediatric infectious diseases
- Hospital-acquired and nosocomial infections
- Diagnostic methods and laboratory research
- Antimicrobial therapy and treatment strategies
- Host-pathogen interactions in children
- Epidemiology of pediatric infectious diseases
- Chronic and recurrent pediatric infections
- Respiratory tract infections
- Gastrointestinal & enteric infections
- Central nervous system infections
- Congenital & TORCH infections
- Pediatric HIV/AIDS
- Pediatric infection prevention, control & outbreak management
- Transmission dynamics of pediatric infections
- Hospital-acquired infections in children
- Emerging infectious diseases

Authors should read over the journal's For Authors carefully before submission.

Prospective authors should submit an electronic copy of their complete manuscript through the journal's Paper Submission System.

Please kindly notice that the “Special Issue” under your manuscript title is supposed to be specified and the research field “Special Issue – *Pediatric Infectious Diseases” should be chosen during your submission.

According to the following timetable:

Submission Deadline	May 8th, 2026
Publication Date	July 2026

For publishing inquiries, please feel free to contact the Editorial Assistant at submission.entrance1@scirp.org

OJPed Editorial Office