

Special Issue on Developmental Pediatrics

Call for Papers

Developmental Pediatrics focuses on the growth and development of children, particularly in cognitive, behavioral, emotional and physical domains. It studies typical and atypical development, including developmental delays and disorders such as autism spectrum disorder and ADHD. The field emphasizes early detection, intervention and multidisciplinary care to support children's development, improve functional outcomes, and enhance overall well-being from infancy through adolescence.

In this special issue, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original research and review articles on Developmental Pediatrics. Potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- Infant and newborn development
- Early childhood development
- Developmental delay and disability
- Developmental screening and assessment
- Neonatology and developmental biology
- Genetic and metabolic disorders
- Genetic syndromes and dysmorphology
- Neonatal follow-up and high-risk infant development
- Early intervention and rehabilitation
- Newborn defects
- Neurodevelopmental disorders
- Behavioral and emotional disorders
- Child psychology and development
- Autism spectrum disorder
- Intellectual and developmental disabilities
- Attention-deficit/hyperactivity disorder (ADHD)
- Language and speech disorders
- Learning disabilities
- Sensory integration disorders
- Motor development and disabilities
- Chronic medical conditions' impact on development

Authors should read over the journal's For Authors carefully before submission. Prospective authors should submit an electronic copy of their complete manuscript through the journal's Paper Submission System.

Please kindly notice that the “Special Issue” under your manuscript title is supposed to be specified and the research field “Special Issue – *Developmental Pediatrics” should be chosen during your submission.

According to the following timetable:

Submission Deadline	July 30th, 2026
Publication Date	September 2026
