

Special Issue on Economic Development and Policy

Call for Papers

Economic Development is the development of economic wealth of countries, regions or communities for the well-being of their inhabitants. From a policy perspective, economic development can be defined as efforts that seek to improve the economic well-being and quality of life for a community by creating and retaining jobs and supporting or growing incomes and the tax base.

In this special issue, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original researches and review articles on exploring economic development and policy. Potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- Economic development projects and planning
- The rise and decline of development economics
- Women's education and development
- Organization for economic co-operation and development
- Information technology for sustainable development
- Regional prosperity
- State and local government development strategies

Authors should read over the journal's Authors' Guidelines carefully before submission. Prospective authors should submit an electronic copy of their complete manuscript through the journal's Paper Submission System.

Please kindly notice that the “Special Issue” under your manuscript title is supposed to be specified and the research field “Special Issue - Economic Development and Policy” should be chosen during your submission.

According to the following timetable:

Manuscript Due	December 23rd, 2014
Publication Date	February 2015
